Abstract	The author points out the presence of a particular parallelism in the use of the terms slavenosrpski (Slavo-Serbian) and slavenobolgarski (Slavo-Bulgarian) by Serbians and Bulgarians in the 18 th and in the first half of the 19th c. In both cases these names mean an affiliation to Serbians, respectively to Bulgarians, to the Serbian and respectively to the Bulgarian nation, whereby their Slavonic origin is specifically emphasized.
